NORTH SIDE HIGH SCHOOL

FOURTEENTH EDITION OF THE

ANNUAL

Published by

CLASS OF

1920

FOREWORD

OUR OBJECT in presenting this book for your inspection is to give you a digest of the activities at North Denver High for the year 1919-20. In order that this be done rightly, every side of the school life must be set forth with equal emphasis. To accomplish this has been the constant aim of the Annual Board and the ideal toward which it has worked. We have tried to give to the Class of Nineteen-twenty a publication worthy of bearing its name and of setting forth its deeds. Whether or not we have been successful is now for you to judge.

We take this opportunity to show our appreciation to Ralph Heckman, to whom we are indebted for the Dedication, to Mr. William Zimmerman, whose efficient work with the camera has added much to the appearance of the book, and to Miss Maxwell and Mr. Fitch, whose advice has been invaluable.

Last, but by no means least, we desire to thank the members of the faculty and of the student body for their whole-hearted support, without which this Annual would have been impossible.

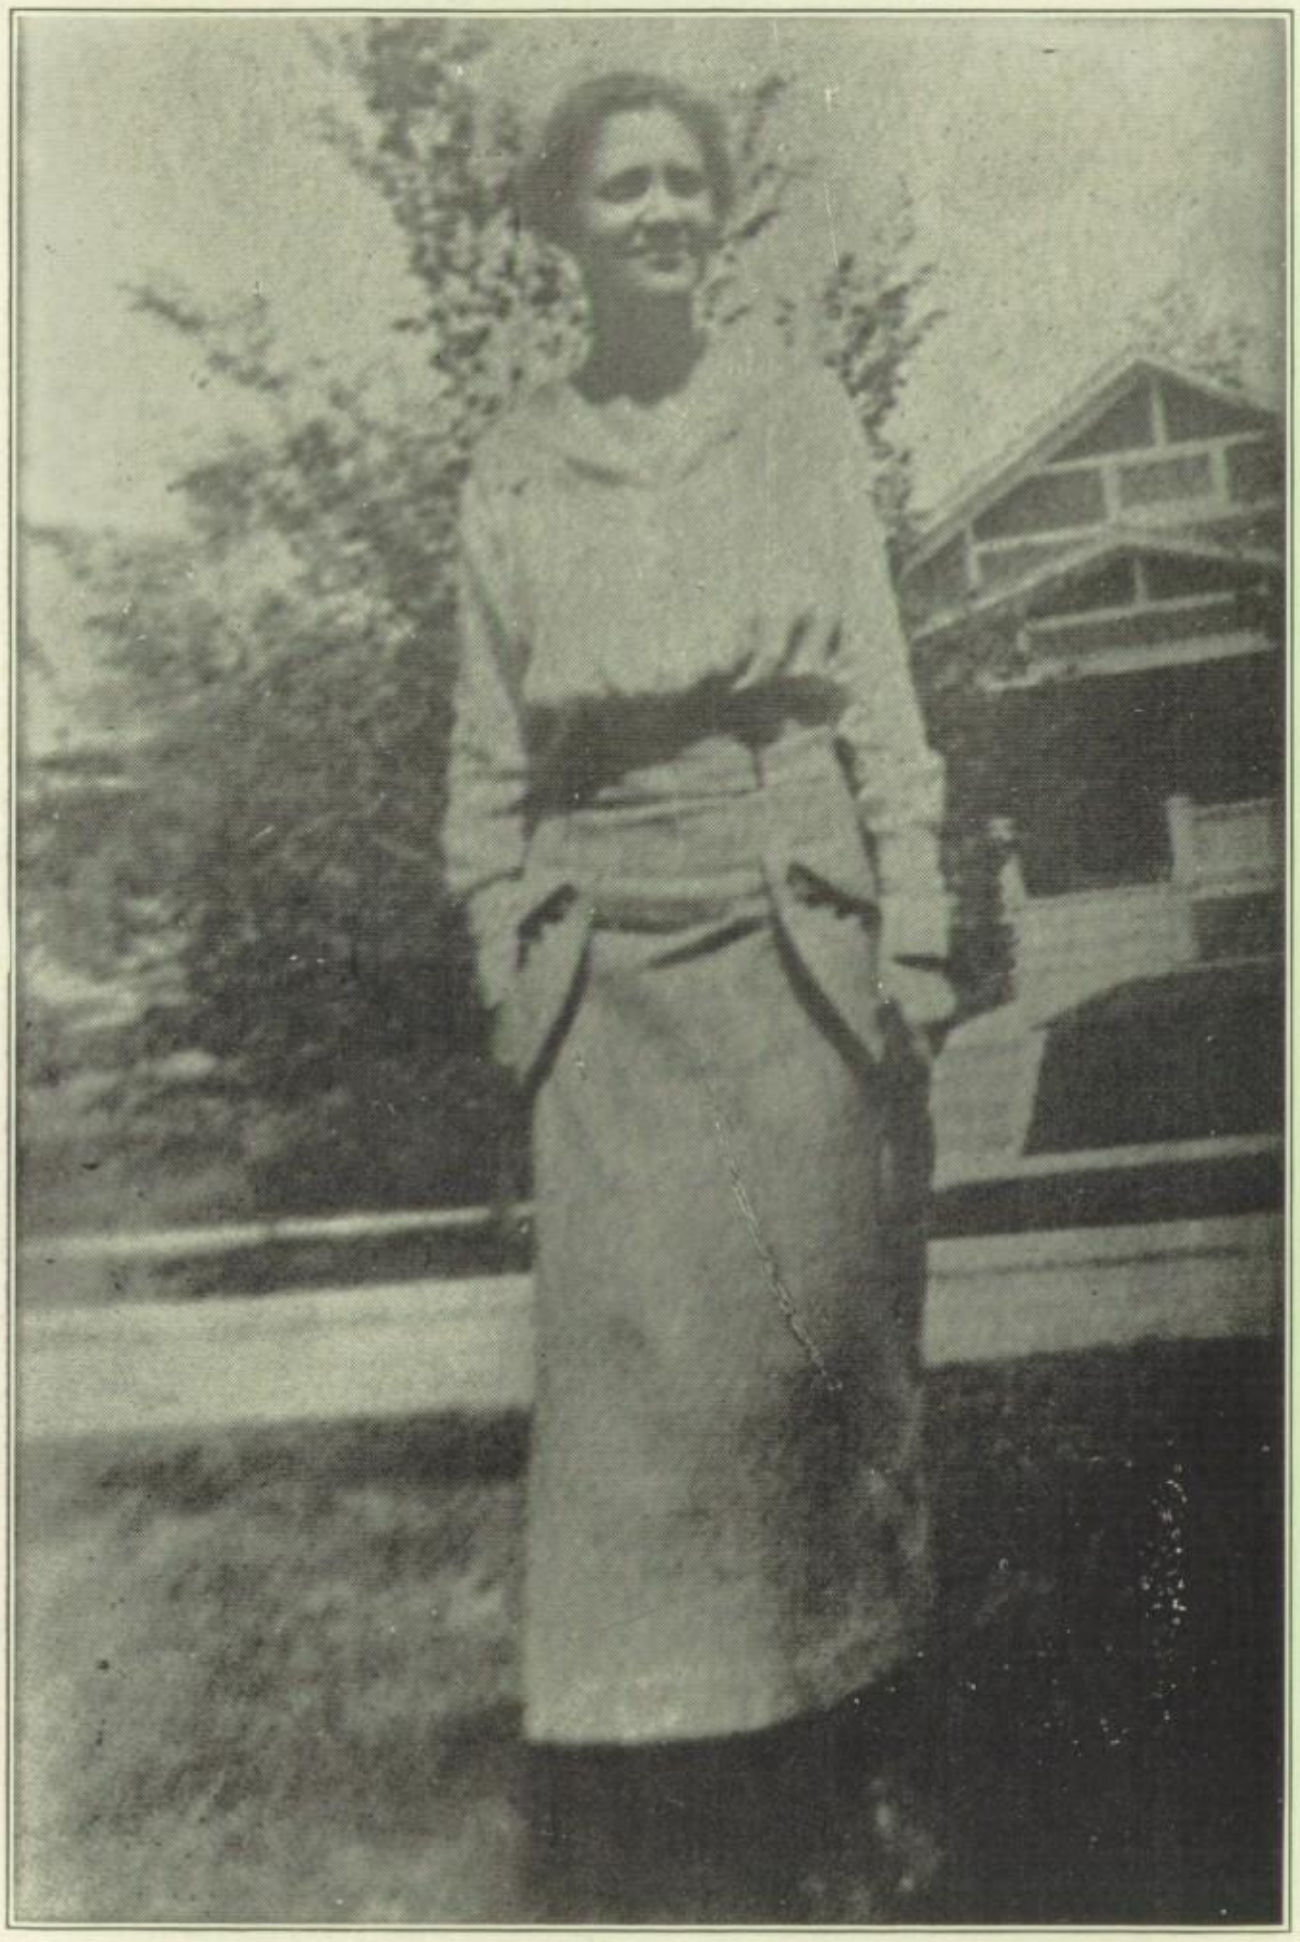
MILDRED WALKER '20

NSHS VIKING



Dedication

"Life is far more worth while living,
We count ourselves as better,
For having met her on the way,
And known the sunshine of her stay."

Miss Metzler has been very dear to all the students who have known her in this school.

How often upon our journey thru High School has she been our pilot, strong of heart, keen of brain, and mindful of our safety. Her influence has gone out in ever-widening circles, as class after class has carried her noble precepts forth into the world of action to inspire the lives of those with whom they came in contact. For these things, and for her self-sacrifice and enduring devotion, we respected, honored and loved her.

Now she has left us and we are desolate in our grief. With tearful hearts we turn to our tasks. A desire to be broader minded people stirs within. The duties we must perform seem easier when the memory of her self-sacrifice is recalled. Death after all is but an inspiration to those on earth to serve humanity while yet the chance remains.

Oh, teacher, you are very dear to us;
You left a memory we shall prize thruout the years.
Sorrow we feel deep-rooted in our hearts;
You can read our ardor thru our tears.
You gave your life to serve mankind,
But now your soul's in Heaven, earth's left behind.
Oh, God above, we commit her soul to Thee,
Take her, bless her, shall be our final plea.

In Memoriam

Gentle, loving, sweet and dear,
Dutiful from year to year,
Doing irksome tasks with grace,
Goodness shining in her face.

Dear Miss Steinhauer—she has been
Inspiration that helped us win
When we faltered, as a light,
Gently guiding us aright.

Now, she's gone! With saddened heart
We feel her loss; and quick tears start
When we feel no more can she,
Smiling, greet us pleasantly.

With her own sweet, friendly smile,
Full of love and self-denial,
And her pleasant word of cheer,—
Oh, she was so very dear!

But she has not really gone,
And her mission is not done,
For enthroned in every heart
She is never to depart.

MIRIAM DUBOFF, '20.

Class of 1920

In the Northern part of Denver,
Stands a building, North Side High School;
New and beautiful is the building
And within its mighty walls
Are the teachers learned and patient,
Also pupils clever and studious;
And they call themselves the Vikings,
Vikings pure and strong, unconquered,
Call themselves above the Angels,
Call themselves the best in Denver,
And among these stalwart Vikings
Is a class called Nineteen-twenty.
They are loyal, true and honest,
Soon they leave the North Side High School,
Leave this plan of joy and gladness,
Leave this place of work and struggle.
In their hearts are mingled feelings,
Memories of work and pleasure,
Wishes that they might stay longer,
Yet wanting to go forth and start
The work that they intend to do;
Help the world by great achievements,
Bring honor to the North Side High School,
Keep its record pure and spotless;
Make it best in all the nation,
So leaves the class with this desire,
Leaves the school with earnest purpose,
Goes forth the class of Nineteen-twenty.

CLASS ODE

By Ralph Heckman.

From dawn of life 'till ev'ning sun,
Our toil on earth is never done;
Our lives must count the most of all,
Prepared, we stand, and face the call.

These years we've spent in school to learn,
Ambition, pride to win, we yearn;
Of all the friends whose love we hold,
The love of teachers glows like gold.

A friendly smile, a handshake here,
At times we're gay—oftimes we fear;
A host of splendid, cherished friends,
One fleeting hour, acquaintance ends.

Let's all unite in this last verse
We sing, before we must disperse;
With faces turned toward the sun,
We grip our lives and labor on.

Presentation of Memorial

Our hearts are filled with joy and our minds with peace as we think of the four successful years we are leaving behind. Indeed, with these thoughts within us we are able to find new beauties in all our surroundings.

But in life even the most wonderful of all joys must be accompanied by great sorrow. As we think of parting with those who have been more to us than the word "teacher" can convey, who with whole-souled sympathy and patience have guided us over the many obstacles which have confronted us and whose kindly philosophy has encouraged us to do more and better things, we cannot stop the rush of feeling that takes possession of us and causes us to ask ourselves such questions as—"will we be able to plunge? What is the world? Will it be kind or cruel to us?" Our only answer is a consuming doubt.

As we meditate, a new pain is added: we are leaving behind the undergraduates, who have not only been our friends in name, but have stood the test of true friendship. They have aided us in everything we have done. What success could we have attained without their support?

With these thoughts in mind we have decided to leave a remembrance to show our appreciation of at least a small part of what our teachers and fellow students have done for us.

Our gift is a filing cabinet to be placed in the library. We hope that it will be very useful. But as you use this gift, if your eyes should happen to see the little plate upon which is engraved—"The Class of 1920"—think of us kindly, for we will need your sympathy to light the unexplored paths which we must follow.

HOMER BERGER, '20.

ACCEPTANCE OF MEMORIAL

In behalf of the faculty and the students of our school, I have the honor to accept the gift which you have so generously presented to us.

It is with much sorrow and much joy that we part with you, sorrow at your leaving us and joy because you have reached the goal toward which we are all striving.

Our class, the Juniors, will attempt to carry on the same good work and promote the high ideals you have set for us, but these aims will be realized only by time, hard work, and the complete co-operation of our fellow students.

Soon you will pass out into a greater world, full of greater things; where the roads to travel will be longer and rougher, but by your never-ceasing efforts and loyalty, such as you have shown in your high school career, we feel assured you will overcome the great problems of life that may confront you.

In the name of the faculty and of the undergraduates, I accept this beautiful gift, and extend to you their thanks.

SHELDON SULLIVAN, '21.

PROPHECY

Oh, sibyl to whom was given
The gift of prophecy,
Reveal to me by your magic arts
This shadowy mystery.
Oh, lift for me the veil that hides
The future, that I may clearly see
What fate awaits each member
In our class of nineteen-twenty.
First in thy recital comes
The members of the Annual Board
To some of whom for their faithful toil
Eternal rest in heaven is given.
No more does William frantically
Demand that write-up from Marjorie,
But they, with Erma, Ralph and Charles,
Park Kinney, Alvina and Beulah soon
In Elysian fields dwell happily,
But to Marie was fate less kind;
For she is doomed to spend her days
In gloomy shades below,
Repining and repenting, because she
Slighted the fair names of many

In that Annual of Nineteen-twenty.
And with her in that awful place
Poor Mildred, too, does hide her face,
And Kendrick, you know, is cast there, too,
For his jokes, alas, were never new.
Homer, our illustrious president,
Will be a landlord, always raising the rent.
As for our treasurer, Dorothy,
We think that some day she'll find "Howe"
To manage each financial difficulty.
Evelyn and Leland, Dorothy and Art,
As now, so in the future, will ne'er be apart.
William Wyatt soon will be
The head of some great company,
And in his office he'll employ
Kenneth Long as office boy;
And Jennie Perloff, his stenographer,
And to assist her, Florence Skinner.
Ralph Heckman will be a preacher,
Elizabeth Goodwin a school teacher.
In his paper Simon Bloom
Will print the names of those for whom
The wedding bells doth ring.
Among these, Julia Chapman and Elizabeth King,
Helen Morgan and Esther J.,
Evelyn Moles and Margery Hay.
Wendell Horsley will gain renown
In Billy L.'s circus as his head clown.
And in the sideshow Pauline will make a hit,
For she will excel as their prettiest midget;
And the dancers on the Orpheum Circuit:
Bella T., Marguerite Darrow and Jeannette,
Mila P., Geraldine Arnold and Elizabeth B.,
Katherine Keller, Barbara Bercher and Ruth D.
Bernice S.'s voice will give her eternal fame,
While on the stage Eunice Berky will make her name.
Dorothy Ratcliffe will write a book
On how to be an efficient cook.
Philip and Mary will always go arm in arm,
While Dot T. and Varner will live down on the farm.
Bill Johnston will flirt with their cook, who is Fern,
When as hired man he will help her to churn.
In a famous college Carle Malone will be
A learned professor of history;

There, too, Jennie A. and Helen Z.
Will be listed members of the faculty.
In a beauty parlor Martha S. will hold sway
And there she'll employ Rose Ginsburg and Ray,
And of those who'll patronize her there are Lillian Ginsborg,
Rose Levy, Ida Richman, and Mildred Goldberg.
Kathryn Wilson will be found
The popular teacher of a playground.
As for our lovely Dorothy Hellis,
We do not need the sibyl to tell us,
That wherever she will chose to go
There at her side will always be Joe.
Edward Stephens will be a baker,
Leila Williams a dressmaker.
Hazel Adams will go to her,
Likewise Elizabeth Ball and Genevieve Walker.
Lucia and Loretta will be splendid cooks,
And Edwin Borowski a seller of books.
As the courteous head usher at the Broadway
Bernard Bertsch will show these society maids the way:
Martha Nisbet, Berenice Morse and Florence Tyler,
Florence Harrison, Mabel Hyde and Lucile Snyder.
Herbert Henning will be a king of finance,
Beula Parmenter will teach boys how to dance,
Margaret Ketchum will be a suffragette,
Carl Ginn in the navy will get very wet.
Bereniece Hibbs, by her luminous eyes,
Will surely capture a beauty prize.
Richard Givens will be a politician,
Lillian Wolfenberger a musician.
Floy Bromstead will be a teacher of drawing,
Charles Young will devote himself to sawing.
Reinhard Schmidt and Ralph Greenlee
Will become brave officers in the army.
An old maid's lot will fall to Julia Green,
And for Stella Pierson the fate of a movie queen.
Ethelyn and Miriam will write poetry
That will put far in the background poor little me.
Robert Ratcliffe will succeed in forestry,
Clark Hepp will be the author of a history.
A noble fate awaits Robert Lail
For he will be chief warden in a jail.
Kenny M. and Hugo each a conductor,
Dean Oberholtzer a movie director.

Edith E. and Mary Minor will teach Sunday school
And William Jordan over his household will rule.
Abe Cohen and George Maler will deal in flowers
And Albert Vale will build lofty towers.
Sam Acker will be a printer
And Harry Blue a famous sprinter.
A lady of leisure you'll be, Lorraine Blore,
And Louie will have "Attorney Schiff" over his door.
John L. Cousins will be a mechanic
And J. McGinty will bridge the Atlantic.
To be a librarian is the fate of Eleanor Moles,
And in operas, Lois Hart will sing the leading roles.
In a college Farrell Eigler will be dean of women,
The president of a woman's club, the destiny of Rose Friedman.
There are many among us for a stenographer's place
And these are they who'll keep up that strenuous pace:
Goldie and La Tilda and Elizabeth P.,
Irene, Gertrude N. and Ida Z.
Of the boys Leslie M., Abe M., and Elbert Allen,
Harry F., Lorin Peters and Donald Mullen.
A charming housewife you'll be, Helen Amoss,
And Lillie M. for her singing will become very famous.
Jessie McCallum will succeed as a nurse
And Janet Meikleham will always have a full purse.
Joseph Kelly will be successful along whatever line he'll choose,
And Ella Belle Maloney will be a spreader of news.
Carrie Partridge will be a popular playwright
And Ida Lavitt will teach us to dance right.
Lorraine Offield will write a book in Latin,
Louis Hellerstein will sell silks and satin.
Louise Eggers, a famous reader will become,
Enos Patrick will always play on the drum.
The profession of a detective awaits Joseph Safron,
To be a popular debutante the fate of Joyce Robison.
Many people will gather to see Virginia Roop,
When in her aeroplane she'll do the loop-the-loop.
Mary A. will be loved wherever she'll go,
Mary Mitchell will never be lacking a beau.
To become married some day will befall Harold Brickey,
Margaret Gilbert will make candy that is ever so sticky.
Those sweet-voiced among us will each be a telephone girl
Such as Dorothy Aylesworth, Tillie Simon and Hepsey Beidler,
Helen Brossard, Ruth Matlick and Mabel Burman,
Elsie Johnson, Lucile Hagans and Hazel Harmison.

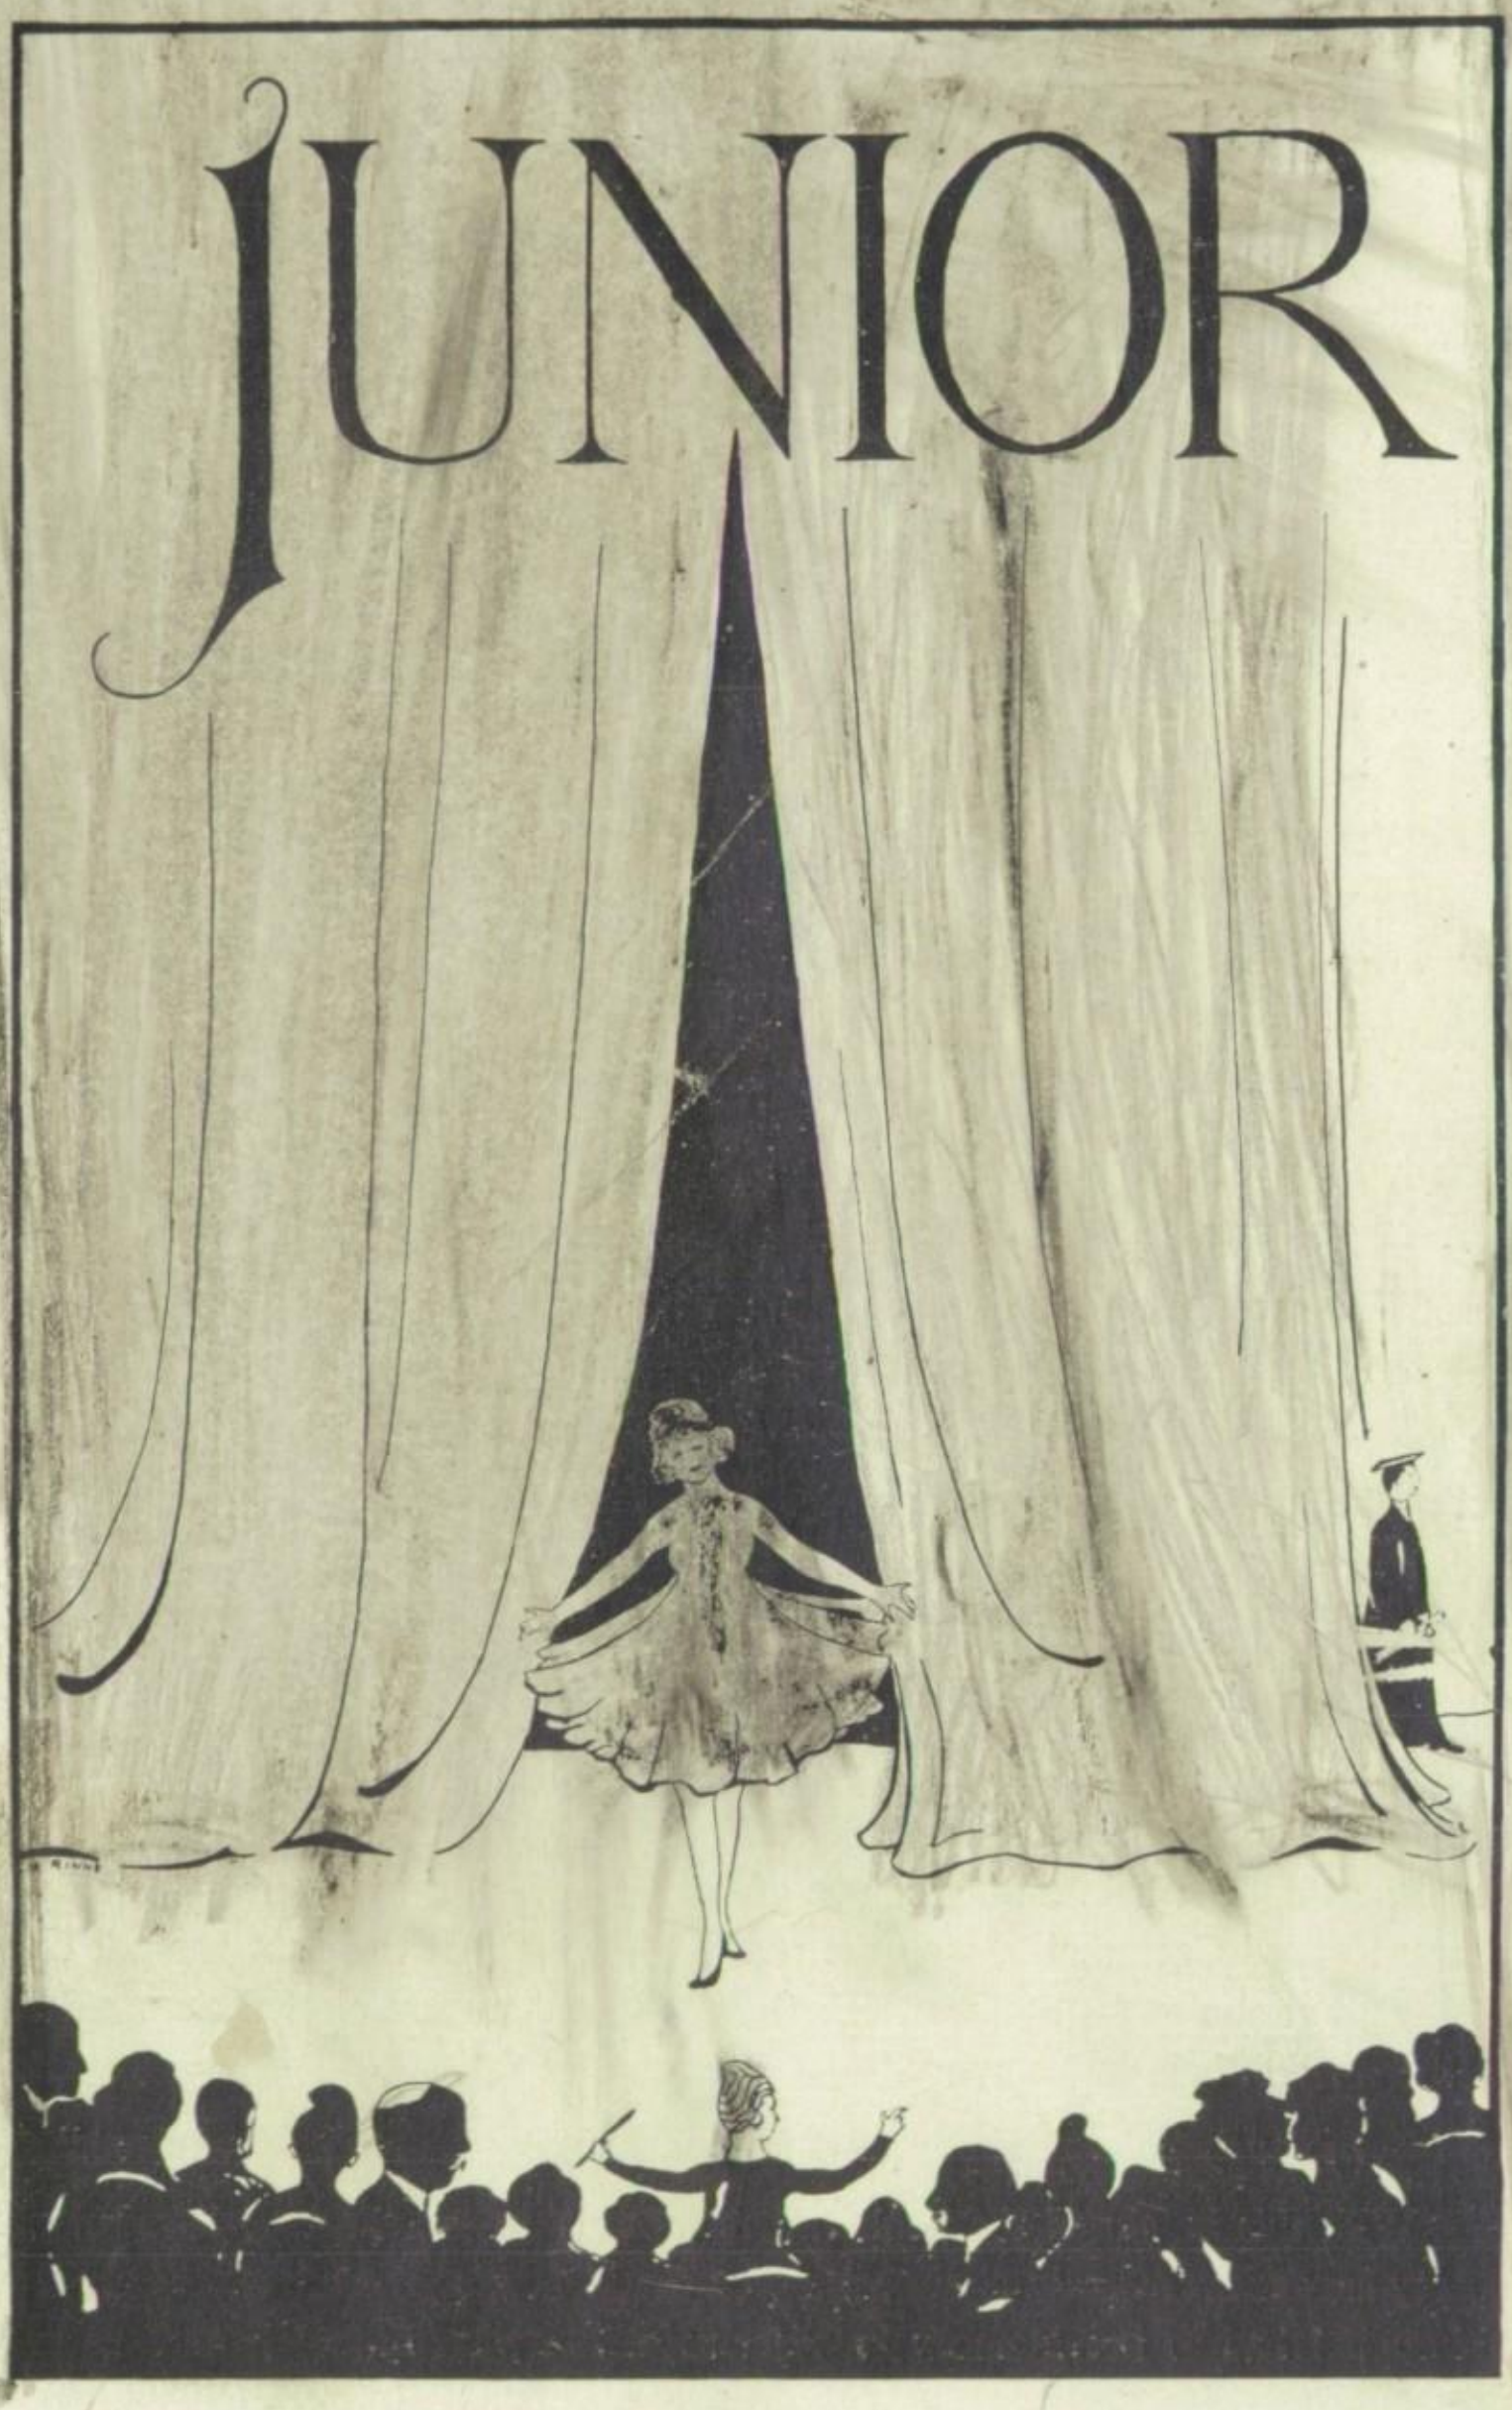
Mary Hunter and Mary Hall will be school marms,
Gladys Kessler and Dorothy F. will be known for their charms.
Harry Bergmann will be a senator,
Robert Virtue a mathematics instructor.
Mildred Rogers, by her jokes, will entertain many a crowd,
And Fanny Kitzes will be a rich lady so proud.
Adeline G., for an artist, will take many a pose,
And Muriel Halstead will never have any foes.
Simon Miller, if he tries, will be an orator,
Donald Douglass will manage a grocery store.
Alice De Long will be known as a marvelous whistler,
Her sunny ways will bring friends to Leola Kessler.
A lovely manicurist you'll be, Lucile Coker,
As for Jack Sylvester he'll be a good broker.
Martha Oleson will enjoy life as a farmerette,
And a teacher of Latin the fate of John Piquette.
To Gwendolyn will lovelorn maidens flee,
There they will find solace and sympathy.
In a kindergarten there'll teach Albina, Ruby J., and Annette B.
And Frank Smith will be an instructor in joinery.
Robert Pontow will be a psychologist,
Wilfred Terrell a successful taxidermist.
Vivian Taylor will sit and sew all day,
Harry Burris will spend his time raking hay.
Alice Roberts will be a costume designer
And Margaret T., too, of fashions will be a refiner.
These boys, things from wood will manufacture,
James Railsback, Louis Laurent and George Fuller.
Elizabeth Gienger will be a matron so sweet,
Nellie Evans in a book will write figures neat.
In chemistry many things will be done by Herbert Carson,
And George Beach we know will surely be a parson.
There are some who'll become famous business women,
Clara K., Anona H., Amelia and Susan.
Florence Montgomery will delight in sophistry,
Vandella Miller perform experiments in chemistry.
Veronica Matthews will gaze at the stars,
Bernice Laws, a chauffeur's wife, will ride in many cars.
Frederic M. and Harold M., each a wonderful mathematician,
Will, assisted by Doris, find what is the fourth dimension.
Myra Mitchell and Mabel Moody will have a school for business women
Enrolled in their classes, Elizabeth Nichols and Kathleen Nelson.
Dave Morris, a lawyer, will win many a suit
By reasoning which Stuart, his opponent, can never refute.

Rosemary F. will be a Salvation Army lass,
And Myrtle, her companion, will sing at the mass.
Hurvie Duval will spend his life
In ever seeking a suitable wife.
Margaret Christenson will be a stenographer
And Joy Swift a lexicographer.
Dorothy Dunievitz will be a journalist,
Bernice Johnson a Spanish interpretess.
Marieta Tracy will be a typist,
Erwin Pohlman a famous scientist.
Louise V., Dorothy Peterson and Florence T.,
Will all excel in cookery.
Pauline Johnston will make hats that all women crave,
Rogers Moyer will be a blacksmith so brave.
Annette Phelps will make a fortune in dressing hair,
Thelma Williams will be an astronomer so fair.
A popular vaudeville will make Carl M. rich,
Mildred W. will soon make her trousseau, stitch by stitch.
Anna Schupp and Eleanor Williams will happy homes grace,
George Willis will enter the presidential race.
Edward S. in mathematics will attain great heights,
Frances Schutte forever will plead for women's rights.
A place of great rank awaits C. Eisenlord,
By his many pupils in dancing Harry O. will be floored.
A charming schoolhouse awaits Bertha Bender,
And David Hawthorn will be a prosperous money-lender.
Oressa, of her people will surely be a leader,
Margaret Law in whate'er she tries will be a "succeeder."
Margaret Beebe will always keep her accounts straight,
Mary Beatty will study flowers, early and late.
As a minister's wife she'll be loved near and far,
So says the Fate that watches o'er Ruth Carr.
Anna Mellman in an office will always work,
And Irene Macon there will be chief clerk.

The veil descends;
The sibyl's tale is o'er
Yet this one message did she give,
Ere I departed:

All cannot soar to the Horeb heights of fame;
And if one's fate to him seems lowly
Yet to all will the greatest happiness come
To love and be loved by their fellow men.

F. S. PERKINS, '20.



JUNIOR

Junior Class History

I stood before the large oak door, gazing fixedly at the name carved thereon. Grasping the well-worn knob, I turned it and slowly entered. The room which I found was one of very large dimensions. All along the walls were arranged large book shelves, heavily laden with books of all manner and description. At the far end, behind an old-fashioned oak desk, sat Memory, engaged in looking up some past event which, of course, is his business.

He raised his head and gazed at me; there was a glint of recognition in his eye, as I approached.

"I wish to consult you on a matter with which I am greatly troubled," I said, when I had arrived within speaking distance.

"Yes, I know," said he, "they all have to consult Memory when it comes to relating some incident of the past."

"Right you are," I replied, "for I wish to get the history of the Class of Twenty-one."

"Very well, I will do my best," he said, and with that he arose from his desk, went over to the book shelves and returned shortly, carrying a large dust-covered volume. Spreading the book before him, he read:

"The account rendered herein is from the year book kept by Observation:

" 'September, 1917—Class of Twenty-one enters North Side. Being new on the job, not much was done during this year, altho a large percentage turned out at the games and bought Annuals.

" 'Year of 1918—Second year, the class accomplishes a great deal more. Well represented in athletics, having men on all the teams, two of whom were on the Championship Basket Ball team.

" 'Year of 1919-20—Junior year, brightest of them all. Class has three men on Championship Basket Ball team, and many letter men on the others. Oratorical contest held during course of year, in which a member of the Junior Class, Richard Caemmerer, won the medal, showing that the class has not only athletes, but students. Sullivan, Elliott, and Sandidge were elected class officers at the election held in February.'

"With such a class the prospects for next year look very bright indeed."

With this he closed the book and replaced it on the shelf. I left, but not empty-handed, for I now knew a little of the history of the Class Twenty-one, although I had to tax Memory in order to obtain what little I here have submitted.

Lost—A Question

"Seated one day in the class room,
I was weary and ill at ease;
My mind had been wand'ring idly
And the day had been full of 'D's'."

"The class was reciting in Hist'ry,
About Generals, Dukes, and Kings;
But my mind was busily thinking
All about 'Logan's' an' other things."

"I heard no sound in the class room,
No recitation made;
'Till the voice of my teacher burst on me
Like the 'boom' of a cannonade."

"I didn't know the question asked,
My name was all I heard;
Most naturally, my mind was blank,
I could not speak a word."

"The teacher cried out angrily,
Then I began to sigh;
But yet I knew the problem was
To either 'do or die'."

"I heard a whisper far away,—
'Lee—Robert Lee,—Robert Lee';—
So I spoke in my bravest tones;
And wanted then to flee!"

"The teacher's face grew very long;
I knew my time had come;
'I'm very sorry, my dear child,
But 'Robert Lee' was not a gun!' "

"I, inwardly, made vows and vows,
To save myself more pain;
My New Year Resolution was
To never sleep again!"

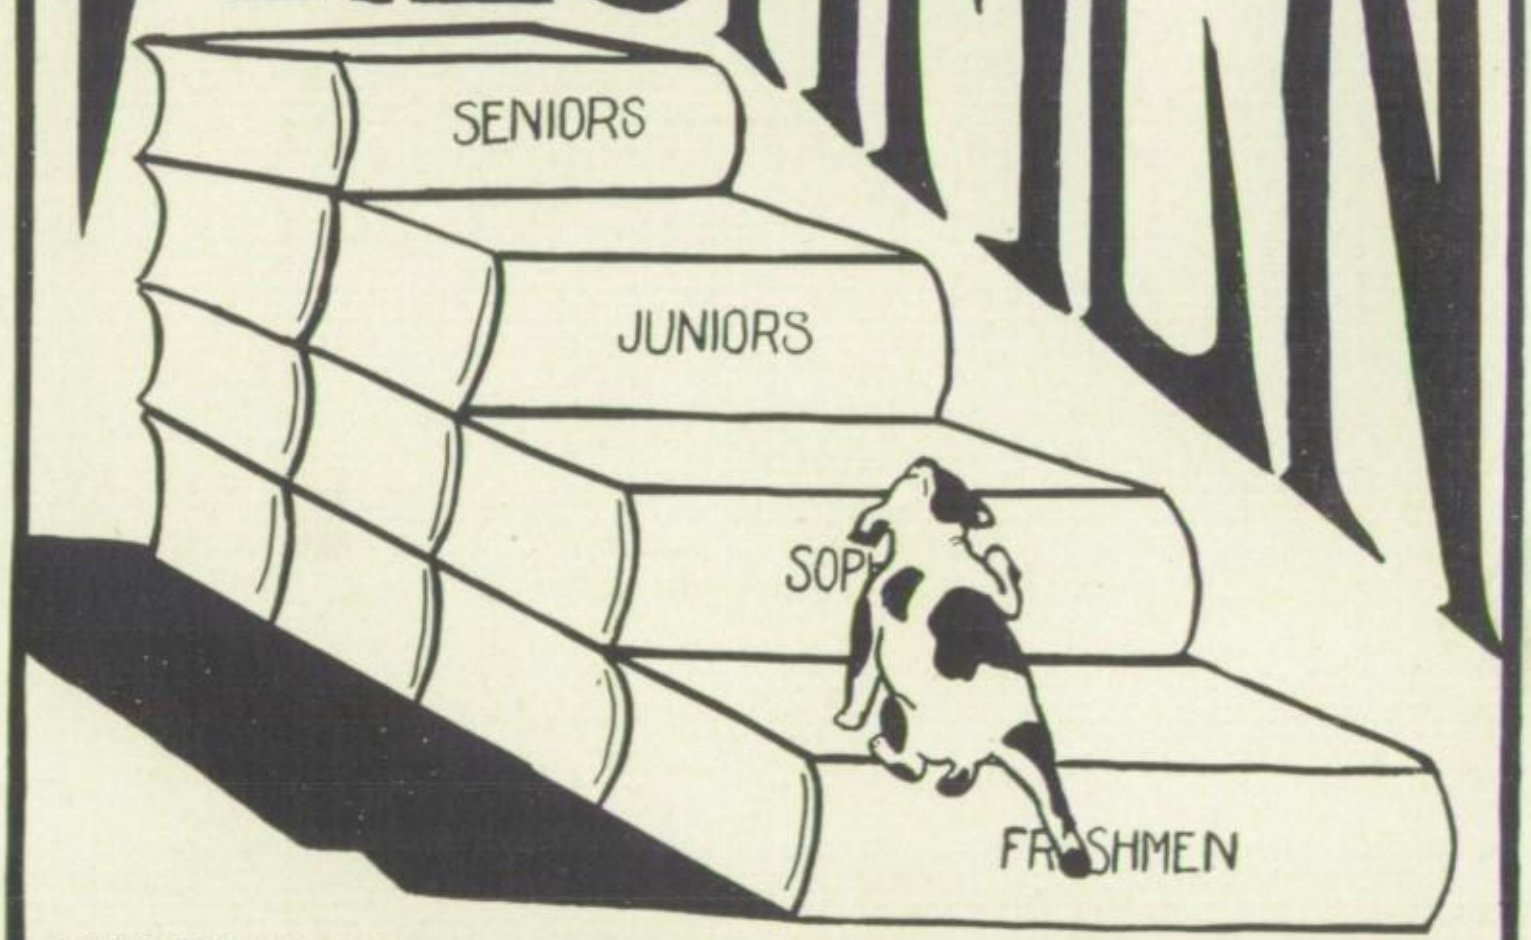
FRESHMEN



MARGARET J. WILSON

A LETTER FROM A FRESHMAN

N. S. H. S.,
March 1, 1920.

Dear Ma, Pa, and Twins:

I arrived at North on Tuesday, Sept. 2. The demonstration was on a larger scale than I had looked for. I guess I am a whiz all right. The procession was very fine. It consisted of busses, hacks, carriages, express wagons, and the police. The students were in doubt as to who should give me the welcome address, so about 100 started to give me the freedom of the school, at 25c per freedom.

The school has an office, an auditorium, and other places of exciting interest. There is a continuous funeral procession proceeding from the office: it reminds me of the time Jacob Ebeneezer died.

I am filling my system with English, Math., Latin and History; also doughnuts and any stray pie that happens to be on the dump.

I had an argument with my teacher the other day. She insisted that Timbuctoo was not in Nevada. Well, these teachers will not partake of your knowledge anyway. She also said that in charging Kosciuschousko with the murder of Julius Caesar, I differed materially from many of our most respected historians. I told her that since the historians were dead, and as it would be cowardly to dispute a dead person, I would not discuss the matter further.

The pupils are very superstitious here. I know one that will not pass up the same side of the street that a teacher is passing down. Another never smokes his own cigarettes. He thinks if he did so he would come to want, and if anybody comes to want he would rather it would be his friends. And, still another seems to have a superstitious dread of mental activity. Some pupils will not tackle lessons on Friday, but this one is even more the victim of this vague superstition, and he has a dread of beginning work on any day of the week for fear some disaster might befall him.

The pupils here are beginning to wear low-necked shoes and clocked socks. This is a sure sign of spring.

Well, I guess this will be enough for this time. Kiss Sunburn and Snowburn for me. I will sneak to bed now. I have to pull the cellar door up over me to keep warm. Ta, Ta.

Muchly yours,
BILL.

The football season of 1919 has made us hopeful for the future. Because of it we feel that with next year's material added to this year's experience, North should put out the best team Denver has ever seen in the High School League.

When Coach Weber announced the opening of the football season he had about seventy-five candidates to work with. These candidates were all good material, but the fact that they did not stay out the entire season handicapped the team to such an extent that it possibly cost us the championship.

Of all the games North played this year, she lost only two; these were the ones with Boulder Prep. and West Side High.

The men who made their letters this year were: Berger, Keim, Horsley, Gross, Duval, Loftus, Sullivan, McGrew, Tighe, Greiner, Lail, Closs, Cousins, McClure and Jordan.

It is our firm belief that if the student body and faculty, as a whole, support the future teams as well as they supported us this year, there is not another school can beat us in "pep"; the "pep" this year was 100% perfect.

To the team of 1920 and Captain Sullivan, we tender our most sincere wishes for the City and State Championship next year.

GAMES:

West, 21	North, 0
East, 7	North, 7
South, 0	North, 0

Boys' Tennis

"The old grey mare ain't what she used to be," and neither is North's tennis spirit. Last fall not more than twenty or twenty-five signed up for the tournament, and only about half went out to win.

But, in spite of this, some very good and fast games were played, one of which was the McGrew-Carson match. Carson won by his speed. The finals, in which Kinney and Henshaw opposed each other, were fast at all times, Henshaw winning three straight sets. The doubles were as much of a success as the singles. The winners of the doubles were McGrew and Berry.

In the city tournament Henshaw was defeated by Clow of West, the city champion, and Berry and McGrew were also defeated by the team from West.

There is some excellent reserve material in the school, and a large number of contestants is expected out next year. JOHN HENSHAW, '21.

BASKETBALL

Coach Weber

Mr. Weber sent a call for basketball candidates on December 1, and eighty-four men came out for practice the first night.

On the third night out we played Wheatridge, and defeated them, 11 to 6. This year saw advancement in Interclass ball. Mr. Weber had each class form a team. This brought out many of the lower-class men, and the interest was the greatest that ever prevailed in the gym.

The results of the class games were:

	Won	Lost
Juniors	3	0
Seniors	2	1
Sophomores	1	2
Freshmen	0	3

Though the Freshmen didn't win a game, they showed wonderful spirit and they played good ball. All the games were close and fast.

Following are the schedule and results of the regular games:

North	31	Manual	10
North	28	East	24
North	29	South	19
North	24	West	19
North	21	East	19
North	26	South	24
Total	159	Total	115

Our post-season game with Holyoke gave us the Northeastern championship. The score was 55 to 26.

This is the first time North ever won every game in the city schedule, not having suffered a single defeat, and the first time in fourteen years that any school has done so.

On the All-City team, North captured three places, Schneider, forward, Keim, guard, and Sullivan, center.

The following players were awarded letters: Berger, Keim, Blue, Duval (guards); Schneider, Elliott, Moyer (forwards); Sullivan (center).

In conclusion, I wish to congratulate Don Keim on his election as captain, and sincerely wish him and the team the best of luck next year.

SHELDON SULLIVAN, '21.

SULLY

The captain. He has played basketball at North for four years. The last two years has been all-city center.

SKI

Has been a North forward for two years. A very steady player. Has been on the second all-city team for two years. Will be back next year.

ART

Last year's captain. He has been on the team for three years. Last two years has been all-city forward. Probably the best basketball player North has ever produced.

BUGS

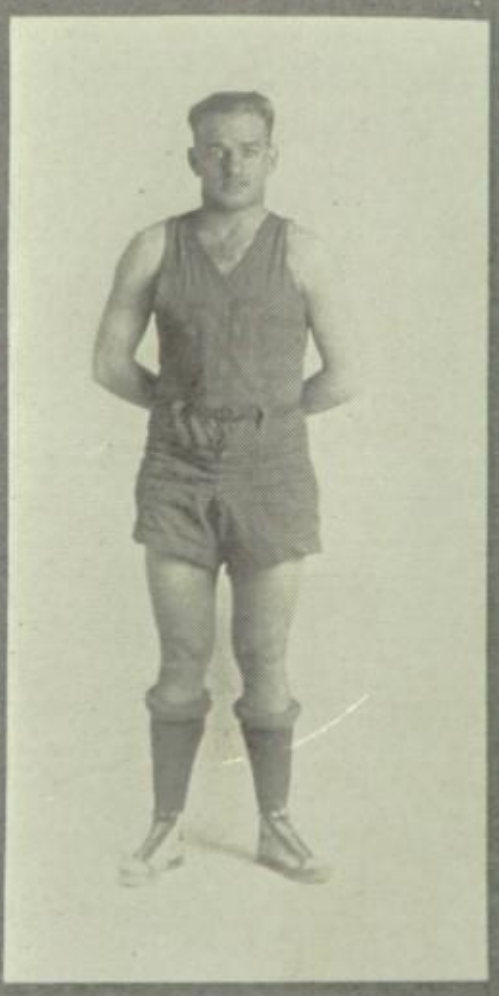
A good guard. Noted for his long shots. Has been on the team two years. Both years he was on the second all-city five.

DON

Next year's captain. All-state guard at Boulder Prep. last year. All-city guard this year. Ranks along with Earl Harvey as the best guard North has ever seen.

RODG

A good forward. He played the game, and played it hard. Opposing guards couldn't keep track of him.



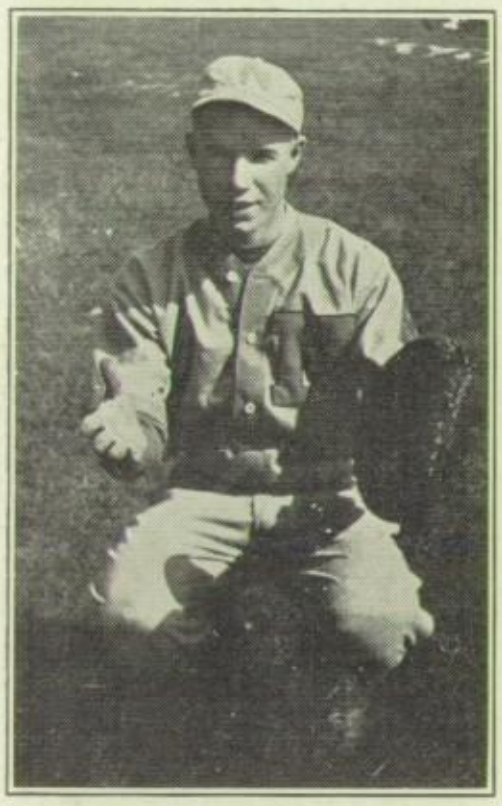
WOP

Substitute for two years. Probably the fastest man in the High Schools. Played guard and forward.

HURVIE

This was Hurvie's first letter in basketball. He played guard and was a nuisance for the opposing forwards.

BASEBALL



Billie Loftus

The baseball season opened last year with a whirl. About fifty candidates reported to Coach Weber for practice, among whom there were three letter men: Lifshutz, Schneider and Keller, Captain. With this material, Coach Weber succeeded in molding a team into shape. We won many practice games, but luck seemed to be against us in the inter-scholastic games.

The first game resulted in a victory for North over our old rivals, East Denver, to the tune of 3 to 1. We dropped the next game to West Denver by the score of 3 to 2. The following Saturday we renewed our Viking spirit by winning over South, 3 to 0. We lost the remaining game to Manual, 7 to 1.

As a reward for their participation, the following were awarded letters: Closs, Bears, Berger, Lifshutz, Rover, Kinney, Buenger, Jordan, Henshaw, Edwards, McGrew, Livingston, Schneider, and Keller, Captain.

There are five letter men out for this year's team: Kinney, Henshaw, Jordan, Serafini, and Schneider, Captain. Under the leadership of our new coach, Mr. Wilson, and with the material at hand, North bids fair to win the championship.

The High School Interscholastic track meet of 1919 is one that will remain in the minds of all who witnessed it for a long time. The day was of a cold, rainy, spring type—the kind that makes one feel glad that he hasn't as yet put away his woolens. It was doubtful for a long time whether the meet would be held, but it was finally decided to have it over with.

Much praise should be bestowed upon the boys who represented the Purple and Gold that day. They fought hard and well thru the drizzling rain and finished fighting hard, being tied for second place, five points behind the winner.

Although there are only three letter men back this year, North has a fine chance to bring home the bacon by a large margin. The new material is developing wonderfully.

The men who obtained monograms last year are: E. Cosner (Captain), R. Brown, P. Greiner, W. Jordan, J. Cousins, and C. Keller.

Girls' Basketball

When the call was issued, on January 7, for candidates for basketball, about sixty girls reported to the gymnasium. Owing to the inconvenience of having their hearts tested, nearly half of this number withdrew their names from the list of candidates. Even though the number of girls left for practice was only about thirty-five, the season was a successful one, owing to the fact that all four classes were represented and because of the valuable aid Miss Barnard gave through her excellent coaching.

We could not play against other schools this year, which was a great disappointment to us. However, we enjoyed a season of inter-class games.

RALPH HECKMAN—CARRIE PARTRIDGE.....President
BERENIECE HIBBS .....Vice-President
FARRELL EIGLER .....Secretary
RALPH GREENLEE .....Treasurer

The Senior Literary Society was organized early last fall. The work taken up this year has been dramatic art. The members were separated into four chapters, namely: Alpha, Beta, Gamma and Delta. Several interesting plays have been presented by these groups, each chapter giving at least one play.

There were about thirty pupils who joined the society this year. The meetings during the first semester were held at the sixth period, but during the latter part of the year were held after school, as had been the custom of former years.

We owe our success to Mrs. Graham, whose energy and faithful assistance has made the society possible.

Scientific Society

CLAUDE KELLY .....President
GEORGE MALER .....Vice-President
HARRY BENDER .....Secretary-Treasurer
FRANCIS KIDNEIGH .....Sergeant-at-Arms

The society has been much luckier this year than last, since it has been able to hold a meeting almost every Wednesday. We had some trouble at the first of the year trying to find a place big enough to hold us, but we finally found a haven with Mr. Twieg. There we could blow ourselves up to our heart's content. So here we are and going strong with the aid of Mr. Fitch and Mr. Twieg. The society has had many creditable talks and experiments. Mr. Twieg gave a good, illustrated talk on Nitrocellulose and Smokeless Powders. Mr. Kidneigh explained the Theory of High Frequency Currents and later Mr. Maler demonstrated with apparatus.

There are about thirty steady members. From the questions discussed, they all aspire to be scientists. In the future we hope to have many fine, illustrated talks, including X-ray, Manufacture of Fireworks, Manufacture of Phonograph Records, etc. The society serves many purposes; it sharpens the perception, creates a desire for more science and gives practice in the preparation of original experiments and lectures, and last, but not least, serves as a form of sensible enjoyment.

North Side High School has the best Girls' Reserve Club in the city, not only in quantity, but also in quality.

The girls have all worked hard this year to make the club a success. You should just come and see if they haven't reached their goal. We have two faculty members who have helped us wonderfully with our work. Without them we could not have been one-half of what we are.

At Christmas time we played Santa Claus to a family of eleven. This is just one example of our helping those who are less fortunate than we.

Our good times, too, have been many. We have had hikes, roller skates and parties a-plenty.

We should like to have all of the girls of the N. S. H. S. become active members of the Girls' Reserve Club for the rest of this year, and for following years.

FARRELL EIGLER, '20, Pres.

North Side Hi. Y. Club

This is the first year North Side has had a Hi. Y. Club, and it has been a great success. The club meets every Monday evening for supper, Bible study, and a talk from some well-known business man. These meetings are held in a North Side church for the first three Mondays each month, and the fourth meeting is held at the Y. M. C. A. with the other high school clubs.

The organization is already doing some good work in the school—such as returning lost books to their owners and taking care of the cloak halls. When the Freshmen entered in February, the boys of the Hi. Y. helped them to find their home rooms.

Although many of the members are leaving this year, those who return will do their best to upbuild the North Side Hi. Y. Club and to uphold its creed, which is: "To create, maintain and extend high standards of Christian living through our school and community."

GERALD ARNOLD, '21,
Vice-President.

Spanish Club

A Spanish club has been organized in order to advance the use of the Spanish language among the students of North Side High School. Nearly every Spanish class in the school is represented in the club. For each meeting a program which is entirely in the Spanish language is arranged and is enjoyed by all. The club is arousing interest among the pupils, and if as much interest is shown next year, it is sure to be an influential organization.

ERMA BONESTEEL, '20.

Welfare Committee

Mitchell, Hardison, Henderson, Cooke, Perkins, Goldthwaite, Ratcliffe, Fulham.

No organization or institution ever attains success unless it has a definite, worthy object in view.

The fact that the Welfare Committee is unquestionably successful, proves the worthiness of its objects and ideals.

This group of girls in the school, selected from each class, has accomplished a noble task, that of helping those fellow students to whom, because of financial difficulties, it seemed too great a struggle to gain the desired education. The Welfare Committee throughout the period of its three years' existence, has either loaned or given books, clothing, money and other things, which seemed needed, to its classmates who required this sort of assistance.

The committee has also originated a new system of raising money for its work. Under the supervision of Mr. Cummings, the members conduct a second-hand book exchange among the pupils of the school and charge a small commission on every book sold. The result is admirable. Pupils sell the books which they no longer need, and other pupils, in turn, buy their necessary books at prices greatly reduced; and, lastly, the treasury of the Welfare Committee increases.

But the girls of this committee could not possibly have attained such success had it not been for the loving guidance and kindly advice from Miss Ingersoll, who has given herself so whole-heartedly to their work.

FRANCES PERKINS, '20.

Big Sisters

In days gone by it was the upper classman's favorite indoor sport to make life miserable for the Freshmen. Nothing so satisfied his spirit of mischief as to misguide the bewildered Freshman and send him hurrying to the third floor when he was looking for the gym, or scurrying to the cooking laboratory when he sought the lunchroom. And sometimes this kindly upper classman would gladly offer minute directions for finding the elevator which, alas, the confused Freshmen still seek in vain.

But the effect on the Freshmen of this ridicule was most lamentable. Because he was treated with indifference, or ridiculed when he arrived at high school, the Freshman in many cases left the building in utter despair and never returned.

To be instrumental in depriving a fellow-being of his education is a grave offense. Recently this fact was realized and so the Big Sisters have sprung into existence.

Each Big Sister is given a few members of the incoming class and it is her privilege to see that her "little sisters" become acquainted with the school and with their classmates.

This year this was done in different ways. The main feature of the campaign to welcome the Freshmen into the school was the party given in the gymnasium in which the Big Sisters and the Y. W. C. A. entertained the little sisters.

The Big Sisters have undoubtedly attained success, for they have accomplished their objects; the Freshmen's introductory high school days are happy where once they were miserable; the seed of school spirit is sown in their hearts; and the burdens of the Freshman teacher have been lightened.

It is with gratitude from big and little sisters alike that Miss Ingersoll's name is mentioned here, for without her wise guidance the Big Sisters could not have reached such heights of success. FRANCES PERKINS, '20.

History Play

Carrie Partridge

The "Winning of Rebecca," a play given by the history department on January 16, was a great success. Carrie Partridge, who wrote and presented the play with the willing and hearty support of the History Class, furnished most of the costumes and properties used. The dress worn by Rebecca originally belonged to the Rebecca Carver of Mayflower fame.

The story is woven about the courtship of Rebecca, daughter of the first governor of Massachusetts, and George Bradford. It is intermingled with historical events of the early settlers.

An admission of ten cents was charged and the auditorium was well filled. The proceeds went into the Annual Fund.

MILDRED KESLER, '20.

French Play

A musical and dramatic program was presented by the French classes of North Side High School on the 26th of November.

French classes of the preceding years had adopted French orphans. The presentation was given for the purpose of re-adopting the orphan of last year's French classes, but by the co-operation of the student body such phenomenal success was attained that it was possible to adopt two new orphans.

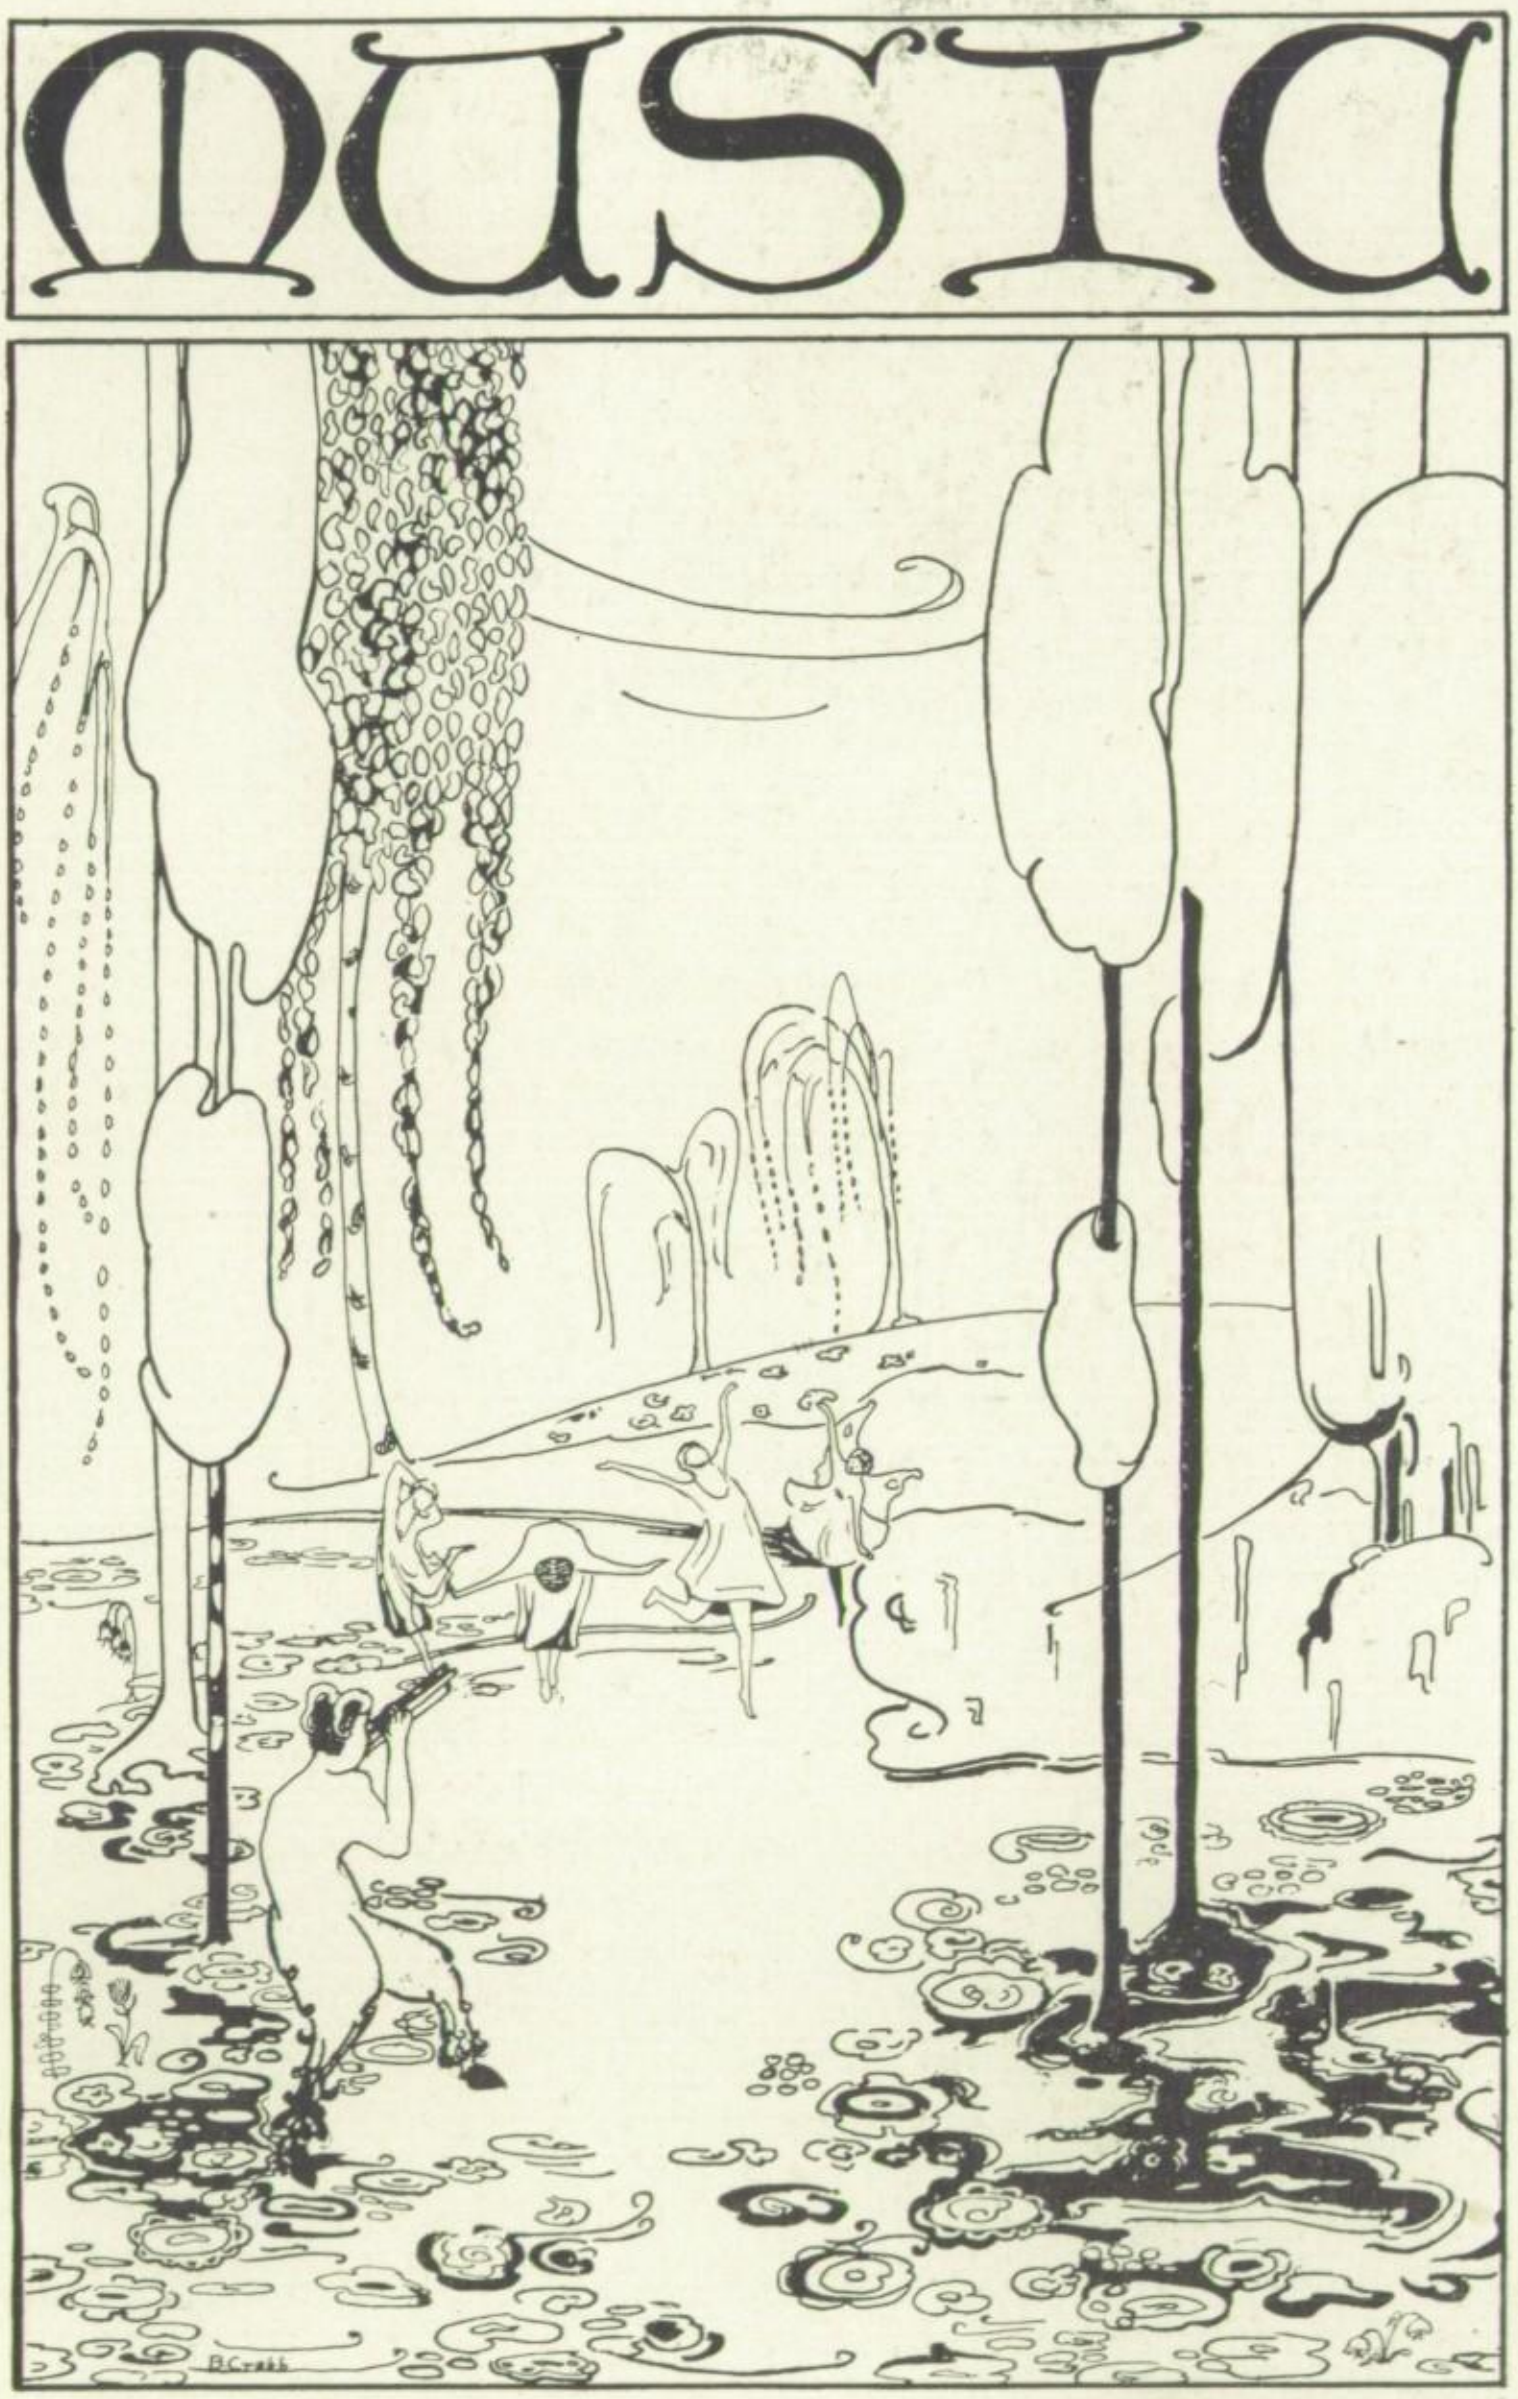
Under the careful supervision of Miss Dupree, Miss Lash, and Mr. Factorovich, who devoted much of their time to it, the performance was a great success.

The orchestra, in which North should indeed take pride, gave a selected number. A number of French songs were sung, among which was "La Madelon," by Miss Lash's classes. A French dialogue and a comedy were given by Miss Dupree's classes. The comedy, "English As It Is Spoken," was staged in the lobby of a hotel in Paris, where, thru the fault of the interpreter, who does not understand English, a misunderstanding ensues between a Frenchman and the father of an English girl whom he loves. But the curtain falls on a scene where everything turns out happily for all concerned.

And to give the performance just the right finish, the "Marseillaise" was sung.

We are justly proud this year because, though French plays have been given before at North Side High, never was there such a large audience as at the play of 1920.

HELEN ZIGMOND, '20.



MUSIC

Orchestra

Music Department

Pioneering in the Music Department began last year when Mrs. White took charge. As in the beginning of all work, the first few steps were very difficult, and it is due to her untiring efforts and energy that this department has become so successful. The first pupils (and their number was not large) began to realize the pleasure which they could get themselves and give to others. As the year wore on, more and more members came into the classes. The student body saw their opportunities in the various musical organizations and this year, with Miss McKelvey assisting Mrs. White and a double enrollment, we can be sure of a growing enthusiasm.

In the past years we have had all kinds of departments to bring out the special talent of each individual, but never before has the one with musical talent had such a chance as he now has in the different divisions.

The divisions are Boys' Glee Club, Girls' Glee Club, Mixed Chorus, Orchestra and the Jazz Band. These have entertained the school on several occasions. During November a musical program was given in the auditorium at the assembly, and all enjoyed it. The Orchestra has furnished the music for all of our entertainments, including the plays, "Betty Wales and Captain Kid," given by the Y. W. C. A. girls; "The Winning of Rebecca"; the entertainment given by Miss Fearless & Company, and also at the Stevens' Oratorical Contest. The Jazz Band has been indispensable, as it played at all of the social hours as well as at the Senior Benefit Party and the Cadet Ball.

This department had spent all of its time previously in assisting other school activities, but in May it gave an Operetta which brought out the dramatic talent as well as the musical.

MARJORIE McCULLOUGH, '22.

Senior Vaudeville

The vaudeville was very successful. It was not only a success financially, but also artistically, bringing out much talent hitherto unknown. There was no difficulty in selling tickets, in fact we could have sold many more if we had had the seating capacity. The performance was staged on the evening of March 12, before an audience of at least fourteen hundred people.

It started with a burst of music from our famous four, called Novelty Jazz. They just seemed to radiate pep and vim. Then, as if called by the music, came two fine soloists who took us into dreamland with their songs. The continent of Africa sent us two representatives, who entertained us with their colored talk. After this came a playlet and several other soloists, attention also being brought to bear upon our foreigners of Latin descent, who staged a tragedy, causing the tears to roll down our cheeks, not from grief, however, but from laughter.

After the show, everyone went to the gym and danced until "lights out" was sounded, then went home entirely satisfied.

After we had paid all expenses, we found that we had over $400 left for the "Viking" fund.

If North Side continues its pep, I am sure that it will be necessary to move the walls to accommodate the crowds in after years.

HOMER BERGER, '20.

Reading Contest

The 1917 Girls' Sight-Reading Contest was held in the school auditorium, Wednesday, April 14. The class representatives who took part were:

Senior—Stella Pierson and Louise Eggers.
Junior—Caroline Acker and Katherine Reade.
Sophomore—Margaret Henderson.
Freshman—Madge MacDonald.
The successful contestant was Stella Pierson.

Junior Prom

The Junior Prom of the class of '20 was a great success. It was held on Saturday, June 21st, 1919, at El Jebel Temple, and about two hundred couples enjoyed the affair. The music was furnished by Goodman's Orchestra and made everyone feel like dancing. This Prom was a very pleasant termination of our school year.

Social Hour

Eigler, Heckman, Hellis

Though the Social Hours this year have not been numerous, everyone is unanimous in the belief that they were very successful, inasmuch as a splendid spirit of fellowship has developed thru the opportunity of classmen to become acquainted with each other.

Because of the co-operation of the student body, the new plan adopted for use by the committee has passed from an experiment to a decided success. We wish the student body to feel our appreciation of this true Viking spirit, carried from the athletic fields of victory, to be manifested during these social engagements.

To Mrs. White and her jazzy admirers we attempt a humble vote of thanks for their labor and time in preparing the harmonious numbers ably presented. We have a right to feel proud of the Social Hour Committee, because it has set a standard of efficiency in plans and operations that following classes will find difficult to attain.

Lastly, but best of all, may these pleasant memories of good times together always occupy a place in the years of life that are yet to come.

R. HECKMAN, '20.

Partridge, Smith, Maloney

Senior Party

The Senior benefit dance was given January 23, 1920, in the school gymnasium.

Our Jazz Orchestra, which has made all of our social affairs pleasant, rendered the musical program for the evening.

The usual "pep" of the class of 1920 was displayed, and the large crowd that attended insured a splendid support for the '20 Viking.

Stevens Oratorical Contest

Wm. Johnston

This year the Stevens Oratorical Contest was held in the North Side High School Auditorium.

Due to the closing of school for one week, on account of the influenza, we were forced to hold our preliminaries with only the contestants as audience and not before the whole student body, as usual.

However, William Johnston, whose subject was "What Constitutes American Citizenship," was selected and represented North very creditably.

The contest was won by Manual, but we feel that we were more than a close second.

THE CLASS OF 1916 ORATORICAL CONTEST

The Class of 1916 Oratorical Contest was won by Richard Caemmerer, whose subject was "Reconstructed America." The contest was held in the school auditorium on January 19, 1920. There were three entries and they all presented their subjects remarkably well.

This is another side of our High School life and it seems deplorable that we should not have more interest in these oratorical contests.

Richard Caemmerer

WHAT CONSTITUTES GOD AMERICAN CITIZENSHIP

Stevens oration in part:

From the time that our forefathers framed that immortal document of American liberty, the Declaration of Independence, to the present time, the greatest American statesmen have always believed in this government. No matter how great the crisis has been, that belief has stood through war and peace, as an essential of citizenship.

But there is something finer, something deeper, something that is lodged in the very soul of a true American. Some call it patriotism. Some call it Americanism. Yes, for it includes these, yet it is something bigger than either of them. It is the Spirit of America, the Spirit of Freedom. And it is this spirit that must be instilled in the hearts of the citizens of tomorrow if this nation is to continue to exist. It was this spirit working in the hearts of our soldiers that won for them, and for the world, the battles fought in France. But are we going to let this spirit, manifested so nobly over there, die? Or are we going to make it live that it may carry us through the years that are to come? The nation rests upon the individual. When a man is found who has in him a consideration for his neighbor, for his employer, for the man employed, for those who have been less fortunate than he, and in that consideration is willing to help all men to the best of his ability and to better and higher ideals, to that man citizenship will cease to be a duty and will become a privilege. This nation cannot afford to have its sons less than men. If we are to keep unsullied the greatness and renown of the flag of our country, a flag born in freedom, carried in war and peace, on land and sea, respected and honored in every nation on the globe, we must create and maintain within us the true American spirit. Then it may be said that the United States of America is a true democracy because its people have the essentials of a democratic citizenship.

WILLIAM JOHNSTON, '20.

Camp Fire Girls

The Wunishaunta Camp Fire Girls of the North Side High School presented the farce, "Miss Fearless & Co.", for the benefit of the library, on the evening of January 8, 1920.

The story of the play deals with four girls, their two chaperons and a maid who try to show their independence by going into seclusion for a month on Spook Island. Their adventures and the scheming of their sweethearts lead to a happy ending for all, including Lizzie, "the ghost."

The Camp Fire was happy to help secure, with the aid of the orchestra and the enthusiastic ticket sellers, one hundred dollars for the rebinding and purchasing of new books. Those taking part in the play were: Margaret Beatty, Mary Beatty, Eunice Berky, Dorothy Duer, Eudora Eppich, Cecelia Goudie, Eula Hardy, Jennetta Harrah, Margaret Schroeder, and Lella Shinkle.

DOROTHY DUER, '21.

Cadet Hop

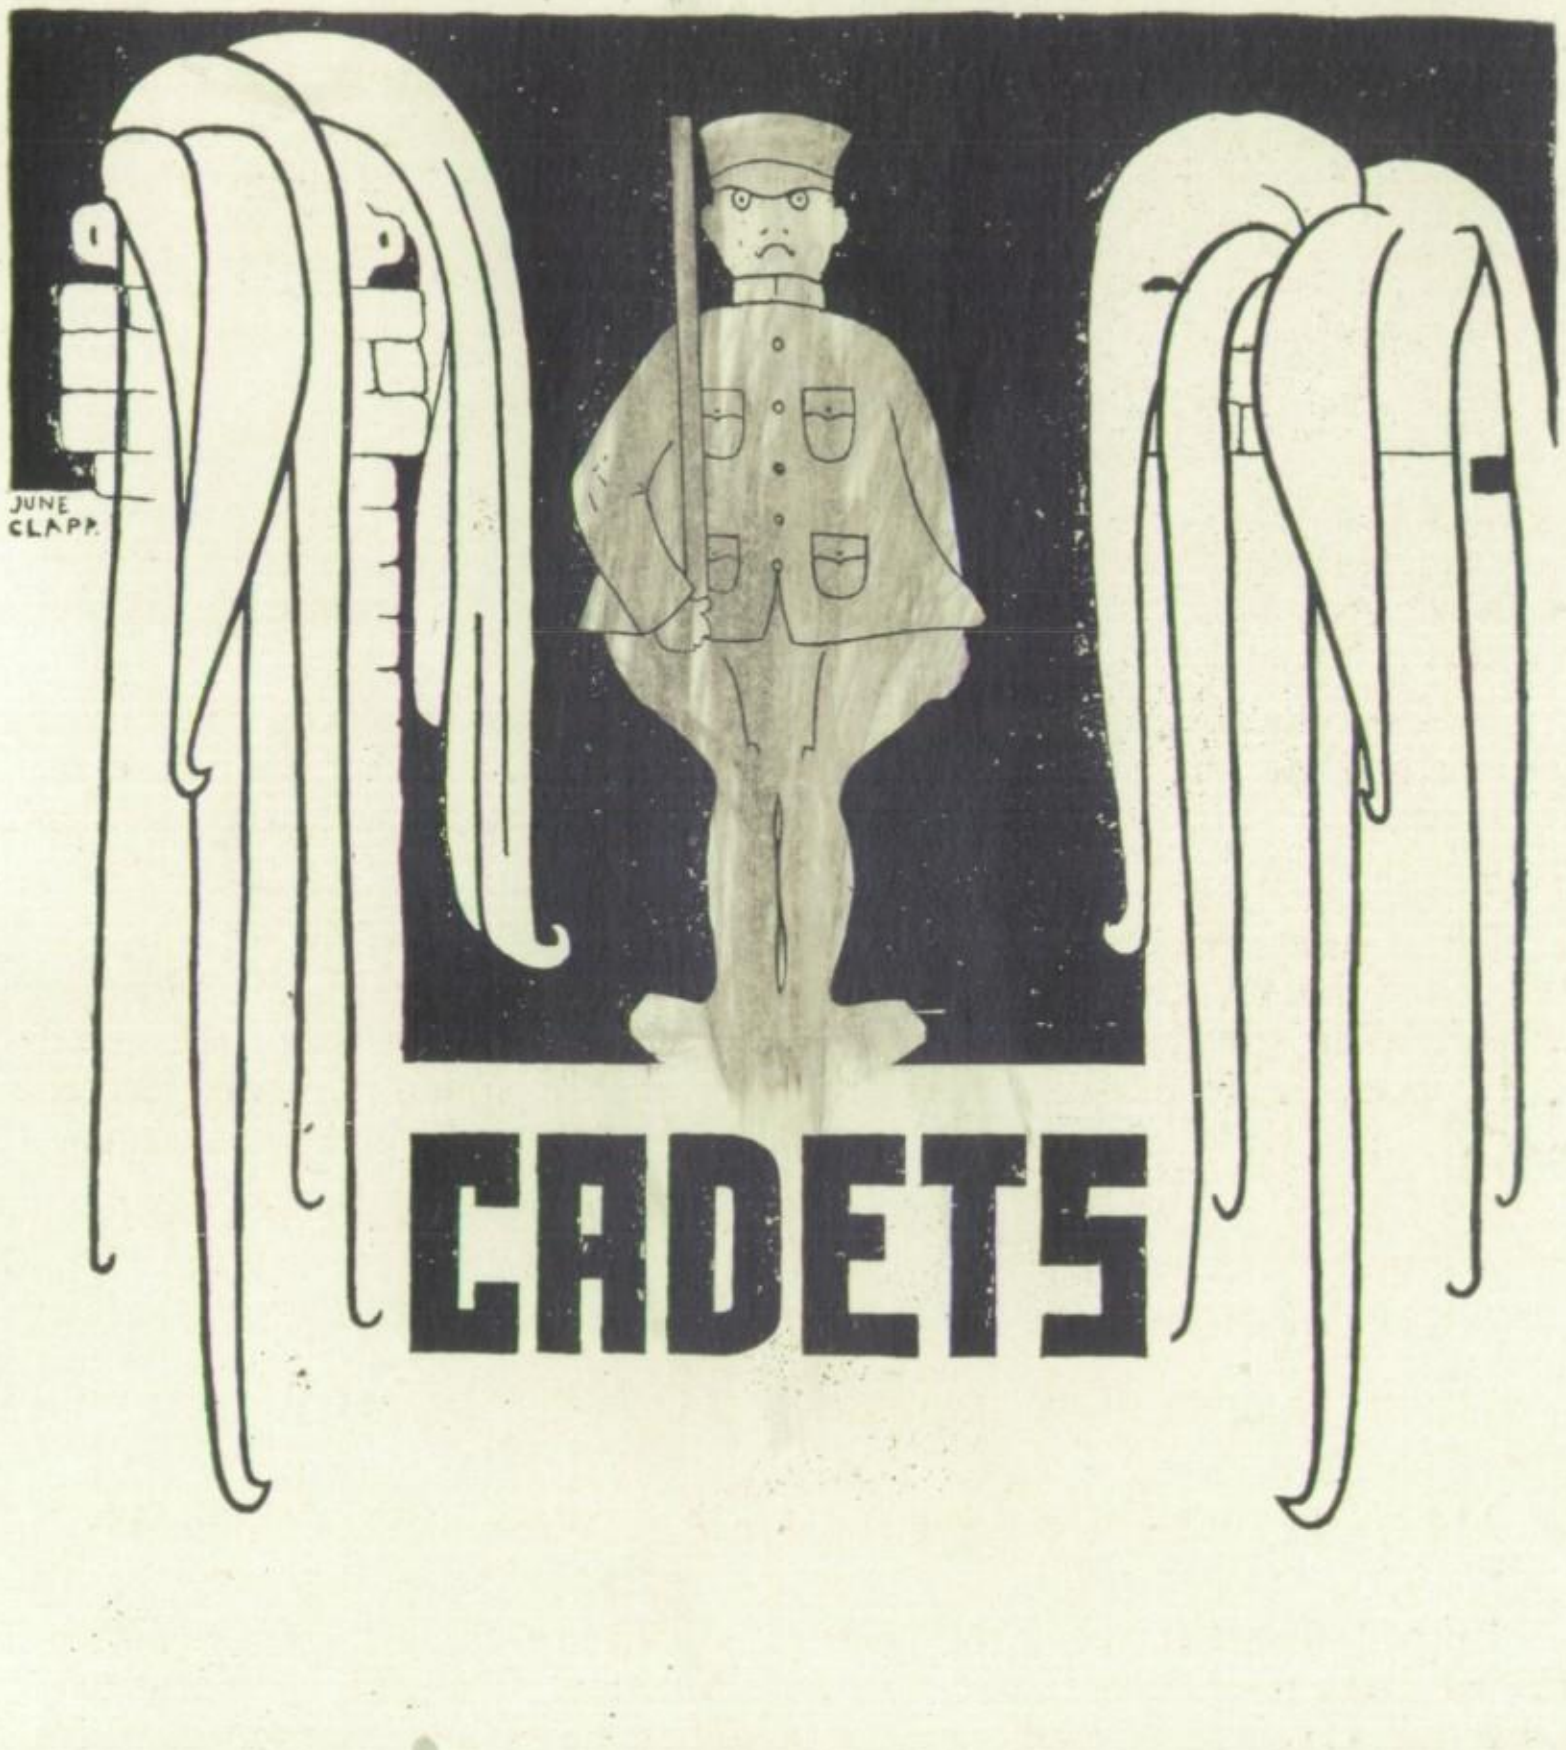
The Second Annual Cadet dance was held in the school gymnasium, March 5, 1920.

Every boy was attired in full uniform, an event which made one wonder if, after all, there need be any fears for future America. The girls were positively captivating, inasmuch as each wore the latest fashions in women's apparel. We certainly salute our sponsors. Their presence put flavor into the jocund evening.

The gym was vividly and artistically decorated with flags and school colors. Old Glory, placed in the center of the floor, stood sentinel, guarding the joyous dancers. Military jazz strains, such as were never heard before, sought out every nook and corner. No, not Morrison's, but White's jazz banders.

The Cadets were honored by the presence of patrons and patronesses: Colonel and Mrs. J. E. Hutchingson, Captain and Mrs. R. S. Hobson, Lieut. Moylan, Principal and Mrs. E. L. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Fitch, and Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Smith.

Tho the occasion is past, the memories of the splendid evening spent in dancing will remain until another year rolls by, and again the Cadets will "trip it on the light fantastic toe."



NS HS

Cadets

The Cadets have prospered in many ways during the past school year. Last June, Company 3 of the North Battalion won the all-city competition for the best-drilled company. Not only that, but Sergeant James Elrod of Company 1 was judged the best-drilled man in the regiment. In the squad competition, the eight men from Company 2N, drilled by Cadet Lieutenant David Shepard, were judged second best.

The North Battalion also took part in a few public demonstrations, such as the reception of General J. J. Pershing, on his visit to the city in February. On this occasion, the battalion was picked from the entire regiment to act as guard of honor.

In February, service in the regiment was made voluntary, and although this reduced the size of the various companies, it raised each organization's spirit and morale. The Sponsors have, as usual, done splendid work, and their aid was greatly appreciated in instructing the Cadets in the gentle art of dancing. They were also active in the success of the Second Annual Cadet dance, which was held in the school gymnasium on March 5th.

The companies are hard at work, preparing for the competitive drill, to be held in May. Nobody knows which is the best company, but various opinions are already being expressed by the Cadets in the different companies.

We wish to pay a tribute to the Cadet instructors who have worked so hard to make the Cadets what they now are. These instructors are Captain R. Hobson, U. S. N. G.; Captain W. Fowler, U. S. Inf., and Lieutenant E. Moylan, 106th Inf., 27th Div., A. E. F. All of these men devoted their whole time to make the organization a success. Lieutenant Moylan was decorated with the Croix de Guerre for a courageous piece of work which he did while serving with the British Fourth Army. Credit is also to be given to the Military Directors, Mr. A. C. Smith and Mr. Philip Fitch, whose work was much appreciated by the battalion, and whose help was very gladly accepted by the Cadet officers.

In closing, we hope that the battalion will continue in the future as it has in the past. The Flag has always been at North, and the Cadets of '20 hope that it will always remain there.

Apologies

It has been our aim, steady and true,
To make this Annual please you;
With this aim our course was set
To do our best lest you forget
Our happy moments, many and long,
That have enlightened the years now gone.
This Annual, with your greatest aid,
Has now been collected, and also made
Into this one completed form
To help you keep it from getting torn.
In this reputations and faults are found,
So possibly you'll find yours around,
But if you escaped with a clean slate,
Watch out, we'll get you at a later date.
Also if your contribution is not found herein,
If we'd had more room it would have been.
Now, if in this volume you come across
Some tale of scandal you think is lost,
If it's a secret that no one knows,
But crept in quietly on its toes,
Don't shout and yell and holler in vain
In a language that's most profane.
"Now, how the deuce did they find that out?
I kept that a secret without a doubt.
I only told that to my chum,
And, of course, she never told anyone.
And that picture I most detested,
The editor should be arrested,
The manager at least be shot;
I'd soon do it like as not,
The rest of the board imprisoned sure,
I think that'd be the only cure."
Now, if your thoughts may be like these,
Just use consideration for us, please.

Now, Did You?

Did you ever see Fern Benson looking quiet?
Did you ever see Jennie Francis on a diet?
Did you ever?
No, you never.
For an act like that would surely be a riot.

Did you ever see a girl with Boulton's pin?
Did you ever see that dimple in K.'s chin?
Did you ever?
No, you never.
For you know a scene like that would be a sin.

Did you ever see Bill Johnston looking tough?
Did you ever see Blimp Wrockloff eat enough?
Did you ever?
No, you never.
For an incident like that is just a bluff.

Did you ever hear Bill Jordan's voice up high?
Did you ever hear him say, "O I'm so shy?"
Did you ever?
No, you never.
For what man has got the heart to tell a lie?

Did you ever see Ray Hamlin put up a bet?
Did you ever see him smoke a cigarette?
Did you ever?
No, you never.
For our lamb is not an evil-minded pet.

Did you ever see Yutch Laurent try to flirt?
Did you ever see him wear a silkish shirt?
Did you ever?
No, you never.
For he hasn't got the nerve to make the effort.

Did you ever hear P. Stevens Kinney swear?
Did you ever see Carl X. Gross comb his hair?
Did you ever?
No, you never.
For incidents like that are very rare.

Jokes--By Wits and Half-Wits

The ones who think these jokes are poor
Would straightway change their views,
Should they compare the jokes we print
To those that we refuse.

Mr. L.—Now I want you all to feel perfectly free to ask any questions.
Kenneth—Say, who is your barber?

A Law in Physics—The deportment of the student varies inversely as to the square of the distance from the teacher's desk.

Bill—There is one thing I like about you.
B. M.—What is that?
Bill—My arm.

"When they take co-education out of the school," said our venerable speaker, "what will follow?"
Voice from the audience—"I will."

Said the school cadet
To his Juliette,
"I'm like a ship at sea.
Exams are near
And much I fear
That I shall busted be."
"Oh, no," said she,
"A shore I'll be,
Come rest your troubles o'er."
Then silence fell,
And all was well,
For the ship had hugged the shore.

You can always get a fellow's goat somehow, but who can get David's "Nanny"?

He—"May I come closer?"
She—"No, I'm afraid you'll"——
He—"No, really I won't."
She—"What's the use then?"

Mr. T.—"What is the nitrate of silver?"
G. S. (sleepily)—"O, I supose it's the same as the day rate."

Though our high school days have their delights,
They can't compare with our high school nights.

Mr. T.—"Did you filter this?"
Dot H.—"No, sir. I was afraid it wouldn't stand the strain."

RULES FOR ADMINISTRATION

1. Pupils should not loiter in the halls during assembly period unless they have something to sell.

2. Pupils finding valuable articles will kindly turn them to 1A unless they come in handy.

3. Pupils who have been absent must bring excuses signed with their parents' names. Care should be taken to make the signatures coincide.

4. (Freshmen) The practice of falling down stairs snould be avoided. It annoys the Seniors dreadfully.

5. Some pupils should avoid getting their lessons perfectly, as a few of our teachers have weak hearts.

FOUND IN A SENIOR'S COMPOSITION

"She stood at the window with a troubled face trying to close it."

F. E.—"What did your father say when you told him my love flowed like a spring?"
F. B.—"He said, 'Dam it.'"

Mr. S.—"Name two products of Swift's pen."
Dorothy—"Cattle and hogs."

A boy.....A book
A girl..... A look
Book neglected,
Flunk expected.

Mr. B.—"What kind of leather makes the best shoes?"
Wendell H.—"I don't know, but banana skins make the best slippers."

JOKES—Continued

Sophisticated Soph. as he reached for his hat, 11:30 P. M.—"Well, I must be off."

Sweet Young Thing—"That's what I thought when I first met you."

Mr. N.—"How was iron discovered?"

Ralph G.—"I'm a little rusty, but I think they smelt it."

If a body sees a body
Flunkin' in a quizz;
If a body helps a body
Is it anybody's biz?

A new class in kindergarten work is being opened by Bill Jordan, 7th Period in 3F.

Joy S.—"What's that bump on your head?"

Frank S.—"That's where a thought struck me."

Ralph H.—(Waiting at Baur's with some loose change)—Getting impatient, he finally cried, "Look here, my good young woman, who waits on the nuts?"

"Would it be improper if I kissed you on the hand?"

"No, but decidedly out of place."

Homer B. came to class Friday and got a headache, so he went home for his weak-end.

Visitor to Farmer—"Why do you call that white pig 'Ink'?"

Farmer—"Because it's always running from the pen."

The milkmaid pensively milked the goat,
And, in finishing, turned to mutter:
I wish, you brute, you would turn to milk,
And the animal turned to butt'er.

V. M.—"That kiss she gave me last night was somewhat strained."

E. M.—"How was that?"

V. M.—"Oh, she wore a veil."

Teacher—"What is the greatest nation on earth?"

Fred—"Examination, sir."

An old head on young shoulders is not always agreeable, especially if they don't belong to the same person.

When is a joke not a joke?

Sir Dancelot—"Usually."

Would you call a man who makes molecules an atomizer?

IN HISTORY.

Miss C.—"What was the Sherman Act?"

H. M.—"Marching through Georgia."

Blimp W.—"What is a polygon?"

W. H.—"Why, a dead parrot, of course."

Teacher—"William, what is the rest of this quotation—'Truth is mighty ____'?"

William—"Scarce, I suppose."

A Soph. saw something green, 'tis true,
And thot it was the Freshman class;
But when he nearer to it drew
He found it was a looking-glass.

He—"You are so dove like."

She (Hopefully)—"You really think so?"

He—"Yes, you're pigeon-toed."

Wise Senior—"My boy, why is Mr. F.'s head like Heaven?"

Dense Senior—"I really couldn't say."

Wise Senior—"Because it's a bright spot where there is no parting."

Special Courses, 1940

As the September enrollment approaches, it behooves us to send out our fall catalogues. We are sending one to you, hoping that you will be interested in some of these subjects. (Enclosed please find enrollment blank.)

Courses now ready.

VAMPICS

This department is under the able guidance of Misses Tyler and Benson. This is a very extensive and popular course.

FUSSOLOGY

Our classes in Fussology are rapidly increasing, owing to the great popularity of this subject. Taught by Profs. Cushing, Johnston and Berry.

WOMAN HATEROMETRY

This is a course just installed this year. It is hoped that it will be a success. Profs. Sylvester and Kinney will have charge. If the girls don't like you, try this; they'll soon fall for you.

CRIBOLOGY

A study very popular with most students. Our only warning is, look out for your profs., they've been at it longer than you. Profs. Metzger, Smith and Henshaw.

SALESMANSHIP

Taught so that you can sell anything from electric fans to Eskimos—to furnaces to Africans. Profs. Bertsch, Willis, Young and Closs.

Hoping to receive your enrollment blank back as soon as possible, as our classes are quickly filled, we remain,

Yours truly,

PERRY GREINER, Prin.; MILA PIERCE, Sec.

DID YOU EVER

Try to kiss a girl good-night that didn't want you to?

Try to get a date with a girl who thought you were a pill?

Try to bluff in Miss L.'s class?

Try to talk back to Mr. B.?

Try to fuss a girl when her chum kept hanging around?

Go out some night and lose your club pin, your rep. and everything else?

Take your girl out riding and get a puncture?

See a girl who showed her ears to all the world?

See one that always had something to wear?

NOW, DID YOU?

Notes Found in the Hall

Dear Joe:

Did you have a good time at the dance last nite? I sure had a swell time. I enjoyed the third dance more than any other; also the good-night kiss you gave me. You sure can kiss wonderfully!!!! Believe in me.

K. S.

Dear Joy:

Well, V. M. and I had another fight as usual. He got mad because K. C. and R. B. were over last night and K. said good-night rather perfectly, and it sure got Varner's goat. What would you do with a fellow like that?

DOT.

Dear Mildred:

Oh, dear, I had the swellest time last night. D. K. took me to that dance and, oh, it was great. Had the wildest time. You should have gone. I'm going to see D. K. 4th period as usual (not unusual) and, oh, he's great.

MARIE.
